

Quirky Curtis

Scenarios

A website called “Scenarios” where you mimic the split doors of an elevator by playing two clips side by side of different scenarios. For example, on the left side of the screen could be a video of someone running to catch the elevator and the person inside not holding the elevator for the other person. While on the right side of the screen could be the same two people except in this scenario the person inside the elevator holds it for the other person. The scenarios can be numbered and their extemeness escalates.

The people in which the elevator transports

Discussion of the characters who live in the building.

What happens within the elevator

When the 70
year old lady
from the top floor got stuck
with her three
dogs and clawed
her way out